Description

Clockwise is delighted to present for your consideration a fine example of a London Regency drop-dial fusee wall clock with the much preferred slightly convex dial. These are becoming increasingly difficult to source in excellent condition such as this example. The recently overhauled and cleaned eight day duration fusee timepiece movement has an anchor recoil escapement, knopped pillars and shaped shoulders to the plates. It comes complete with its original pendulum and two keys for both the working bezel lock and the working trunk lock. The slightly convex twelve inch painted dial is in stunning condition and adorned with the maker 'Hurst, Lambeth Walk'. Restored to a high standard the dial is complimented by original moon hands beneath the original cast brass bezel and convex glass. The case is a standard two-piece design with the narrow surround, typical of the period, attaching to the back box via four lovely matching wooden pegs. Adorned with fan ears the flame mahogany veneered trunk has brass inlay to the pendulum viewing window area and also the lower curved area which houses the beaded locking door complete with key. The viewing window with brass frame com...
