Description

A charming late 17th / early 18th century oak geometric chest of drawers, full of character and rich period presence. This beautifully proportioned piece is a particularly appealing small size, measuring just 77cm wide, 55cm deep and 73cm high, making it incredibly versatile and easy to place. The chest displays wonderful colour and depth, with a rich, time-worn patina that only centuries of gentle use can create. The geometric drawer fronts add visual interest and reflect the craftsmanship and design sensibilities of the period, while the original style oak knobs and escutcheons complete the look perfectly. Solidly constructed and full of honest wear consistent with age, this chest has great decorative appeal and would look fabulous in any room of the house – equally at home in a bedroom, hallway, living space or study. A lovely example of early oak furniture with both practicality and undeniable charm.
