Description

A Fine Chinese Famille Rose 'Birds and Flowers' Jar, Guangxu Mark and Period (1875–1908) Dimensions: Height: 12.5 cm Condition: Good antique condition, displaying a vibrant enamel palette with minor, honest glaze anomalies characteristic of period firing. (Lacking original cover). This finely potted cabinet jar features a classic and vibrant Huaniao (Birds and Flowers) motif, expertly rendered in a rich famille rose and wucai hybrid palette typical of the late Qing Dynasty revival period. The main body depicts two brilliantly enamelled long-tailed pheasants perched amidst an asymmetrical composition of pierced scholars' rockery, blossoming peonies, and twisting plum branches. The reverse is balanced by elegant sprays of yellow chrysanthemum and seasonal flora. The base bears a crisp, hand-painted six-character mark in overglaze iron red reading 大清光緒 (Da Qing Guangxu Nian Zhi), and the piece is securely attributed to the Guangxu Period (1875–1908) based on several key physical indicators: Calligraphic Merit: The iron-red reign mark is executed with a confident, fluid hand characteristic of late 19th-century luxury domestic wares. The pigment shows natural depth and ...
