Description

An Extremely Rare Mid 18th Century English Sycamore Farmhouse Kitchen Dining Table, Of Excellent Large Scale, Having Superbly Figured Three Plank Top With Cleated Ends, Retaining Exceptionally Rich Untouched Colour And Patina Throughout, Raised On Bold Square Legs And Stretchers. This wonderful farmhouse dining table boasts great size, comfortably seating 10 people, possibly even 12 on occasions and is the perfect shape to use in a whole variety of dining rooms and kitchens with all sorts of different styles and designs of chairs. It is extremely rare to find English 18th century variations of the traditional farmhouse table still on the market and available for sale these days, instead by far the majority which are available for sale tend to be 19th century and French. It is even rarer to find them in such excellent condition retaining such a beautiful, rich, warm colour and patina. The lovely sycamore top, has certainly aged gracefully and the whole table is just extremely untouched, exactly how one would hope to find a table of this age, with plenty of evidence of use throughout the many years of its life. The square leg base is very sturdy and strong, whilst remain...
