Description

An exceptional antique Louis XV carved gilt wood console table, dating to circa 1770. This elegant piece is a fine example of 18th century French craftsmanship, displaying the graceful curves and intricate detailing associated with the Louis XV period. Beautifully hand carved with flowing rococo scrolls, foliate decoration and cabriole legs, the frame retains its rich gilt finish which enhances the depth and detail of the carving. The proportions are refined and decorative, making it an ideal statement piece for a hallway, drawing room or formal interior. Importantly, this table has come from the estate of Corby Castle and is fresh to the market. Pieces with such provenance are increasingly desirable and add to the historical interest and collectability of the item. A rare and decorative 18th century console table with excellent presence and period charm. Condition Presented in good antique condition overall with age related wear consistent with circa 1770. The gilt surface shows natural rubbing and patination as expected. Structurally sound and ready for placement. Please review all photographs carefully as they form part of the description.
