Regency Mahogany Bow Front Chest of Drawers A handsome English Regency mahogany bow front chest of drawers, dating to the early 19th century, circa 1800-1820. Of elegant proportion, the chest is formed with a well-shaped serpentine front and stands on splayed bracket feet. The chest is fitted with two short over three long graduated drawers, retaining its original brass handles, escutcheons and working locks, all of which sit correctly and consistently across the piece. The interior shows traditional pine linings with oak drawer sides, typical of the period. A well-balanced and practical piece, equally suited to both traditional and more contemporary interiors.
