Description

In superb condition, a beautiful cast iron table by Falkirk Iron Works and dating from around 1880. . The intricate foliate and pierced top with twelve cartouches – each a beautifully modelled sign of the Zodiac. . With no repairs or damage. Very heavy and sturdy, the table is 150 years old and will last for centuries more. . From a Lancashire country estate, the paintwork is old and attractively mossy and weathered apart from the top which the owner recently repainted with a white metal paint to give a clean surface for dining. This will weather over the year but is currently noticeably whiter on top compared with the base. . Shown here with a set of four Victorian garden chairs of a particularly fine and intricate design (probably Coalbrookdale) and of elegant and compact proportions – available separately and purchased from the same vendor as the table. . Good undamaged Zodiac tables are highly collectible and rarely found. They are works of art. . The table has clearly always been very well cared for and retains all of its original fixings. . A lovely example. . Dimensions are approximately: 29 inches high x 31 inches diameter
