Description

This is a rare surviving all original 18th century Windsor chair. The chair is painted in brown paint which has worn away very attractively over the years giving the piece a great deal of character. The overall condition is very good although the back does have a slight weakness with an original copper banded repair. Which looks great and adds to the charm of the chair. Overall size is very practical with tall legs which is rarely seen as these chairs were often used on stone floors and worn down over time. Great vernacular piece. Height 107cm Width 59cm (Arms) 59cm (Legs) Depth 55cm Depth of seat 34cm Height of seat 39cm
