Description

Mid 19th century figured mahogany writing table attributable to Holland & Son. The beautiful new green leather top and original broken gilt tooling sit above two full length mahogany lined drawers. The turned knobs and locks are original to the writing table with the sides and the reverse veneered in the same figured timber. The shallow frieze sits on four robust turned and reeded tapered legs that stand on the gilt brass caps and castors. The table, although not stamped Holland & Son, has all the hallmarks of a top London maker and Holland & Son were quite well known for this style of writing table. The shallow frieze and strong legs work well and give the writing table stature.
