Description

A wonderful vintage silver parure comprising ring, bracelet and earrings by Harold Arthur Lazarus - a London jeweller listed at the 1947 British Industries Fair as "Manufacturer of fine diamond-set paste jewellery and semi-precious stone jewellery". His company was known for its high-quality gold and silver jewellery, often in antique revival styles. This gorgeous set is made in solid sterling silver and has deep purple guilloché enamel panels topped with silver flower sprigs.

- Condition: Excellent vintage condition. The enamel is intact throughout. The flowers are riveted into place on the guilloché panels and the sprig on the ring can move a little (I think its rivet is a little longer than the others), though still in perfect condition.
- Hallmarks/stamps: The bracelet is hallmarked for sterling silver, London 1956, and has the HAL stamp for Harold Arthur Lazarus. The ring and earrings are unmarked but test as sterling.
- Fixing: The bracelet closes with a long slim hook and eye. The earrings secure with closed ear wires (possibly later).
- Earrings size: 3 x 2.2cm, 4.7cm total drop including the ear wire. 13.5g. The enamel panels throughout are approximately 2 x...
