Description

Antique 20th century Edwardian cabinet in mahogany, very well made and of fine quality. Featuring a raised gallery to the top above an attractive open bow-front shelf, creating a stylish and practical display area. Below is a two-door cupboard with a single internal shelf, providing useful storage space while maintaining the elegant proportions of the piece. Standing on bracket feet and retaining its original brass handle, this cabinet showcases the quality craftsmanship associated with the Edwardian period. Beautifully inlaid throughout with fine satinwood and ebony stringing, it boasts gorgeous mahogany grain and rich colour, enhanced by the decorative detailing and excellent attention to craftsmanship. The combination of open display space and enclosed storage makes it both versatile and highly appealing. A very desirable example in good condition, displaying beautiful grain, colour and inlay throughout. Full of character and charm, this elegant cabinet would make a wonderful addition to any home.
