Description

A breathtaking display of Edwardian silversmithing, this solid sterling silver tray is a true work of art. Dated 1906 and fully hallmarked for London, it features an opulent Rococo-style repoussé design with bursting florals, curling vines, and scrolling acanthus leaves. The central cartouche remains blank, ideal for monogramming or display as-is. Layered with roses, daisies, chrysanthemums, and grape clusters, the tray offers a lush garden in silver relief. * Envisioned as a wedding gift in Edwardian London - chosen to grace the home of a young couple. Measurements: Length: 11 1/2" (approx. 29cm) Width: 8" (approx. 20cm) Silver weight: 239g In good condition - Crisp detailing throughout; no loss of definition in the repoussé. Light surface wear and warm patina enhance its authentic antique charm.
