Description

This fabulous double sided Drogueries sign which has white porcelain lettering on dark coloured glass dates from the 19th century and has a painted wood frame. This highly decorative and rare sign reads Drogueries. M. Antoine Delcourt and is mounted in an ornate wooden frame which is fitted with a plaque to each side that reads Colville. R de L'etuve, B, Liege being the Belgian maker. This shop sign would have been hung outside a Droguery in Belgium. The original hanging loops still remain and the whole piece has a stunning aged patina with blistered paint finish. An unusual and extremely desirable antique sign that looks stunning when hung so would be ideal for a cocktail bar, pharmacy, shop display or a special piece for home display. Material: Glass. Ceramic. Wood. Metal. Date: 19th century. Dimensions: Width: 75 cm (29 1/2"). Height including top hanging rings: 48 cm (19"). Weight: 3.570 kg. Condition: Very good decorative antique condition with signs of use in keeping with age. Some wear, tear, cracks and ageing giving the sign a wonderful decorative look. No breaks to glass which is original. Some old repairs to the frame. Please see pictures. Please note t...
