Description

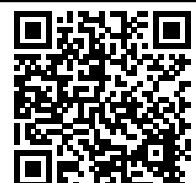

OFFERED AT TRADE AUCTION PRICE NO Commission or Any Fees to pay FREE UK DELIVERY INCLUDED / No Export 19th Oil on Board Under Glass Original Frame. - This portrait depicts a Coldstream Guardsman a (private) buttons in two's and Garter star on neck collar with Gold Rose Shoulder epaulet insignia (not officer star) This style of uniform and insignia was introduced after the Battle of Waterloo and is still in use by the Regiment today. Officers and senior NCO's have Full Gold Neck Collars and red sash. The absence of a Brigade of Guards Shoulder flash, introduced after the Boar War, certainly supports the notion that it is 19thc. A finely painted oil portrait on artists board of a British Guardsman wearing his Redcoat uniform. The portrait is finely detailed and an accurate representation set with a gilt oval freight and within the original Victorian frame under glass. The gilt border has a few marks and the frame has had good restorations in the past, otherwise all in respectable order for the age. Please note there are slight reflections seen on the portraits due to being glazed. Condition : Plaster frame moulding has had recent repairs down the right hand ma...
