Description

A beautiful antique Edwardian satinwood demi lune games table, finely crafted and decorated with elegant hand-painted floral and classical motifs. Constructed from richly figured satinwood, this versatile piece functions as an attractive demi lune console table when closed and opens to reveal a green baize playing surface, making it ideal as a card table, games table, or occasional table. The top is beautifully embellished with painted decoration featuring classical figures, floral swags, and decorative detailing, while the frieze and tapered legs are further enhanced with delicate painted ornamentation. Raised on elegant square tapering legs terminating in original brass castors, the table displays the refined proportions and craftsmanship associated with quality Edwardian furniture. A highly decorative and practical antique table, perfectly suited to a drawing room, living room, hallway, study, or period interior. An excellent example of antique satinwood furniture combining beauty, craftsmanship, and functionality. Height: 75cm Width: 84cm Depth: 42cm (closed) When opened, the table reveals a full circular playing surface.
