Description

A superb antique French gilt brass fireplace fire screen in the elegant Louis XVI style, richly decorated with exceptional neoclassical detail and craftsmanship. Featuring a finely cast gilt bronze frame with ribbon-tied garlands, flaming torch finials, scrolling acanthus ornament, and a decorative floral wreath crest. The central medallion displays a beautifully modelled trophy of musical and classical attributes, including pipes, quiver, laurel leaves and ribbons, reflecting the refined decorative taste of late 18th-century French design. Raised on elegant acanthus-cast cabriole supports terminating in hoof feet, this fire screen possesses outstanding presence and quality. The warm gilt finish and intricate casting make this an impressive decorative feature for a period fireplace, country house, townhouse, or luxury interior. Equally attractive displayed in front of a fireplace or as a standalone decorative object. A highly decorative example of French gilt bronze workmanship, combining beauty, craftsmanship and timeless elegance. Dimensions Height: 78cm Width: 75cm Depth: 27cm
