Description

A superb antique Victorian walnut circular centre table dating from the 19th century, crafted from richly figured walnut and displaying exceptional colour and grain throughout. The generously proportioned circular top is beautifully veneered and finished with an attractive gadrooned moulded border, providing both elegance and visual depth. Beneath, the table is supported by a substantial carved baluster column leading to a striking scrolled tripod base decorated with acanthus carving and retaining its original castors. The beautifully figured walnut veneers create a dramatic pattern across the top, while the bold pedestal and sweeping tripod legs provide excellent stability and a timeless silhouette. Equally suited as a centre table, reception room table, library table, or statement piece within a hallway, drawing room, or country house interior. A fine example of Victorian craftsmanship combining quality materials, impressive scale, and elegant design. Dimensions Height: 73cm Diameter: 122cm
