Description

A fine 19th-century flame mahogany cabinet of excellent colour and rich figuring, displaying beautifully matched veneers to the drawer front, doors and top. The moulded top sits above a single frieze drawer retaining its original brass escutcheon, over a pair of panelled cupboard doors veneered in particularly striking flame mahogany, creating a highly decorative appearance. The cupboard opens to reveal a useful shelved interior, providing practical storage while maintaining elegant proportions. The cabinet is further enhanced by shaped corner pilasters, moulded panels and sturdy block feet, all contributing to its refined yet understated appearance. The quality of the timber is evident throughout, with the beautifully figured mahogany displaying a warm, well-developed patina.
