Description

A superb 19th-century Regency Tunbridge Ware tea caddy, crafted in the highly desirable sarcophagus form and veneered in richly figured rosewood. The lid and body are adorned with intricate Tunbridge Ware marquetry inlay, showcasing the remarkable precision and artistry associated with these celebrated English decorative wares. The caddy is further enhanced by its elegant brass grape and vine handles, adding both decorative appeal and practicality. Retaining its original key, this exceptional piece reflects the refinement of Regency tea culture and the importance once placed upon the storage of valuable tea leaves. Highly sought after by collectors of Tunbridge Ware, Regency antiques, and fine English treen, this tea caddy makes an impressive addition to any collection. 14cm height 19.5cm width 12cm depth approximate measurements
