Description

Antique Victorian Mahogany Davenport Desk. Exceptional Victorian Davenport With Barley Twist Supports This exceptional early Victorian Mahogany davenport writing desk, circa 1840, is a beautiful example of mid-19th-century craftsmanship, combining high functionality with the elegant design elements of the period. Constructed from fine quality Mahogany, the desk features a striking writing slope fitted with an inset burgundy full grain leather writing surface, beautifully embellished with gold tooling. The piece retains its original, lightly faded French polished finish, which exhibits an abundance of genuine patina and character whilst maintaining a wonderfully even colour throughout. The slope opens to reveal a neatly configured interior lined with vibrant Birdseye Maple veneer which is a dummy to front its pull out pencil drawer on the side, providing a wonderful tonal contrast to the deep Mahogany exterior, complete with fitted pigeonholes for organisation. The structural design is supported at the front by a pair of substantial, finely carved opposing barley twist columns resting on a shaped plinth base. The desk is exceptionally versatile, featuring a traditional b...
