Description

This unusual set of postal letter scales has great eye appeal. They are made in brass with a complicated cantilevered balance movement. They are stamped for manufacture in Czechoslovakia. They are used for weighing letters and post and have a scale for English post and a separate one for foreign post. The remarkable part about these scales is their condition, which is untouched from the manufacturer. They were discovered packed away in their original cardboard box, and they are in perfect condition with no dents or damage, and they retain their original lacquered finish. They are in what I can only describe as a time warp condition. Czechoslovakian for the English market, circa 1910 Height 16.5cm x width 10cm x depth 7cm
