Description

Antique 20th century carved Edwardian desk in oak, well made and of good quality. Featuring six drawers in total, arranged as two drawers to the upper section and four below, two on either side, providing excellent storage for paperwork and everyday essentials. The centre section incorporates a double-door cupboard fitted with a single internal shelf, offering additional practical storage space. Retaining all of its original handles and fittings, this desk showcases the quality craftsmanship and authenticity associated with the Edwardian period. Beautifully carved throughout with a high level of attention to detail, it is further enhanced by a raised gallery to the top and stands on attractive bracket feet. Boasting gorgeous oak grain and rich colour throughout, this impressive piece combines functionality with decorative appeal. A very desirable example with excellent proportions and plenty of character. Presented in good condition, displaying beautiful grain, colour and craftsmanship throughout, this charming Edwardian desk would make a wonderful addition to any home office, study or living space.
