A superb Georgian cylinder top desk circa 1810. Mahogany with ebony and boxwood stringing to the front and sides. With four oak lined drawers and a pull out candle slide on each side. The interior slides forward and includes a writing slope with an adjusting ratchet. This desk displays several features of superior quality which include the rope twist legs which sit on castors and the veneered and finished back. Quite rare to find a desk with the candle slides and this with the quality would suggest that this was probably custom made for a wealthy client.
