Description

This exquisite pair of late 19th-century Sevres-style porcelain lidded vases stands impressively at 86 cm high, showcasing the artistry of that era. Each vase features a stunning turquoise ground embellished with intricate hand-painted romantic rural scenes that depict idyllic landscapes and playful figures, capturing the essence of pastoral beauty. The craftsmanship is further highlighted by delicate gilded accents that enhance the ornate detailing, including floral motifs and graceful scrollwork. The lids are adorned with decorative finials, adding to their grandeur. These vases serve not only as decorative pieces but also as historical artifacts, reflecting the refined taste and artistic prowess of their time, making them a remarkable addition to any collection.
