Description

We are delighted to offer this splendid, solid silver bowl c.1880 during the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Featuring an understated yet elegant form, this bowl is complimentary to many settings, whether it be as a display centrepiece or as a practical piece of silverware to serve your favourite treats. The bowl presents a mirror finish and unembellished surface, yet its design is far from elementary. It has been raised and sculpted in a wonderful flared shape, almost flower-like and reminiscent of a Tudor rose. The flared shape allows for a generous holding of fruit, sweets or even flowers as the raised foot presents the bowl with confidence. Overall, a lovely piece of Austro-Hungarian silverware perfect for versatility and practical use even in the modern day. The bowl is marked with Austro-Hungarian hallmarks on the rim of the base of the foot. *Please note: all images with other items are for display purposes only, this listing is for the title item only.
