Description

A charming antique portrait bust depicting a young girl, finely modeled with naturalistic facial features, flowing hair, and a softly carved expression. The bust rests on a shaped wooden plinth, presenting a classic early 20th century decorative sculpture style. Signed on back 'Phroso 1911'. The work captures the sentimental character of Victorian and early decorative arts, where portrait busts of children were popular as symbols of innocence, remembrance, and domestic refinement. The aged surface and patina add to its historic appeal.
