Description

This superb Raj period Indian hand carved sculpture depicts a male bull elephant in a most unusual kneeling-seated position with its front legs raised into the air. The elephant has been hand carved with good detail from a single large block of beautifully grained and figured dense hardwood. The figure has developed a rich patina over the polished surfaces, giving a very pleasing aesthetic look to the sculpture. Indian circa 1890 Height 30cm x width 23cm x depth 30cm FREE UK DELIVERY
