Description

An exceptional antique Art Deco sideboard by the renowned London cabinet makers Epstein, dating to circa 1930. Beautifully crafted in richly figured burr walnut veneers, this elegant sideboard perfectly captures the glamour, sophistication, and craftsmanship of the Art Deco period. The striking stepped design, gently bowed centre section, and flowing serpentine side cupboards create a bold architectural presence, whilst the highly figured walnut veneers display spectacular grain patterns and warm golden tones throughout. The central cupboard opens to reveal a fitted arrangement of drawers, traditionally designed for cutlery and tableware storage, while the flanking cupboards provide generous shelved storage. Raised on elegant carved cabriole-inspired feet and standing above a shaped platform base, the piece combines practicality with unmistakable period styling. Furniture produced by Epstein remains among the most sought-after names within British Art Deco furniture. The firm's commitment to exceptional materials, innovative design, and superior craftsmanship has ensured continued demand from collectors, interior designers, and discerning homeowners alike.
