| USD $41 | EUR 35

Item Reference: SA1221249Date of manufacture: Victorian

Description

These appear to be three antique brass garden syringes or "rose sprays," likely dating from the late Victorian to Edwardian period (c. 1880–1910). The wooden handles and brass cylinders are typical of hand-pumped garden sprayers used for watering delicate plants, applying insecticides, or misting greenhouse specimens.
