Description

An exceptional antique French display cabinet by the legendary Parisian ébéniste François Linke, bearing the original stamped lockplate, an important mark of authenticity from one of the finest cabinet makers of the Belle Époque. Crafted from beautifully figured kingwood veneers laid in striking herringbone patterns, this elegant vitrine showcases the extraordinary quality and refinement that made Linke internationally renowned. Rich gilt bronze (ormolu) mounts adorn each corner, while the delicately cast central apron featuring a classical mask and floral garlands demonstrates the exceptional artistry associated with the finest Paris workshops. The cabinet is crowned by a superb rouge marble top, whose warm tones perfectly complement the luxurious kingwood veneers beneath. Fully glazed to the front and sides, the cabinet offers an elegant display for fine porcelain, silver, objets d'art, or treasured collections. Internally, the adjustable glass shelves maximise both light and visibility, creating a striking presentation from every angle. Furniture by François Linke is regarded amongst the very finest examples of French cabinet making, with original signed pieces beco...
