Description

Fresh to the market after having Hung 25 years in my own hallway. An exceptional pair of Brass and Glass Hanging Lights Circa 1890-1900. Possibly made in Birmingham. Beautifully put together in brass, held up by 5 chains, to an exceptionally cast brass ceiling rose, with five hooks to hold the chains, ending in an acorn, to which the cord and bulb hang. The glass is moulded and frosted, held in place by another rosette terminal that screws into place. Please look at the numerous images These have hung for 25 years, they have not been cleaned, so the patina is that of uncleaned brass, these can be cleaned to be bright brass, but are beautiful as is Brass diameter 40 cms brass diameter from chain hook to chain hook 44 cms brass and glass depth 28 cms
