Description

A handsome late 18th century walnut chest of drawers, dating to circa 1770, with beautifully figured crossbanded drawer fronts and a rich colour. The chest is fitted with two short over three long graduated drawers, retaining attractive brass swan-neck handles, and stands on well-shaped bracket feet. The quality of the walnut grain throughout gives the piece excellent colour and character. A practical and elegant piece, offering generous storage and timeless appeal. The original locks are no longer present, though this does not affect the chest's functionality or its decorative charm. A solid and well-proportioned example.
