Description

High Victorian Black Marble Mantel Clock with Rouge Marble Columns by F. Marti, Paris – c.1860 A striking High Victorian mantel clock dating to around 1860, featuring a fine architectural black marble case in the Palladian style. The case is accented with variegated rouge marble column supports and elegant gilt floral and foliate inlay, adding both richness and formality to the overall design. The clock has a brass bezel enclosing a clean white enamel chapter ring with Arabic numerals and blued steel hands. The dial has two winding holes and bears a few old but stable hairlines consistent with age. The high-quality 8-day movement is by the renowned maker F. Marti, Paris, and retains its original bell strike and backplate. Dimensions: Width: 45.5 cm Depth: 17 cm Height: 36.5 cm Condition: Presented in good condition overall. Some light surface wear to the case as expected for its age. The enamel dial has visible but sound fractures. The movement is of excellent quality and has been recently serviced. Ready for display and use.
