Description

This exquisite pair of signed Japanese Meiji period bronze lidded urns, each standing 43 cm high, showcases the intricate craftsmanship characteristic of this era. The urns feature a rich, textured surface adorned with detailed reliefs depicting mythical creatures and traditional motifs, skillfully combined with bronze accents that enhance their visual appeal. Each lid is topped with a finely detailed lion, symbolizing strength and protection. The urns rest on ornate bases, supported by elegantly crafted dragon feet, which add a dynamic element to their design. The intricate patterns and harmonious proportions reflect the artistry of the Meiji period, making these urns not only functional but also a stunning representation of Japanese cultural heritage.
