Description

Early C19th Regency period mahogany dining table of highly versatile and restrained design. Raised upon two rectangular bases of box form each with four elegant ring-turned slender tapering legs fitted with gilded brass cup castors and wheels. The ends of the tops with gently rounded corners and moulded reeded edges, the 2 original leaves corresponding edges. All fitted with the original gilded brass fittings and with their original gilded brass 'fork' clips to secure the table. The whole top being of a superior grade of figured solid mahogany which has achieved a pleasing mellow, lightly-faded colour and patina. The table being of generous, broad width and balanced proportions, having a deep overhang above the sides of the frame below, providing good leg-room to accommodate chairs and diners. Can be assembled for use in full length to comfortably seat 10 diners, or if desired can be easily disassembled to form a smaller breakfast table without the leaves, to seat 4 diners. The design allowing the table to be easily dismantled and moved if required, thus providing flexibility and space options. An elegant table of restrained design in untouched, original condition.
