Description

A fine quality arts and crafts oak refectory table. The table dates to the 1940/50's and was recently purchased privately from the Lake District and the quality and style points towards one of the quality workshops from the area such as Arthur Simpson of Kendal. The table is made from the finest quarter sawn English oak, it has a thick oak plank top which sits on twin pillared legs and sledge feet, the base is chamfered on all edges, a sign of the quality craftsmanship. The table is in fantastic original condition and ready for everyday use. Length - 181.5cm Width - 105.5cm Height - 75.5cm
