Description

This striking 19th-century French giltwood mirror is an exceptional decorative piece, richly adorned with scrolling acanthus leaf carvings and an elegant octagonal bevelled mirror plate. Retaining its original candle arm and beautifully aged gilt finish, the mirror embodies the romantic grandeur of the Louis XV revival style so sought after by interior designers and collectors today. The reverse bears the original Parisian trade label for "Benoit, Doreur," indicating a distinguished French maker specialising in gilded frames, antique mirrors, and decorative works in Paris during the late 19th century. With its sculptural silhouette, hand-carved detailing, and shimmering original silvered bevelled glass, this antique French wall mirror creates an extraordinary focal point in both classical and contemporary interiors. Ideal for a Parisian apartment aesthetic, grand hallway, powder room, dressing room, or layered salon-style interior, the piece offers the timeless elegance associated with fine French decorative arts. The original candle scone adds further charm and atmospheric appeal, making it equally suitable as statement wall décor or sophisticated accent lighting styli...
