Description

Early 20th century Weathered Cast Stone Neoclassical Birdbath Planter and Base, 67cm diameter. An exceptional quality, high stone content, composition stone antique birdbath planter circa 1920s. An elegant neoclassical style birdbath planter with an egg and dart decorative border, showing a timeworn lichen and moss, weathered appearance, upon an equally advanced weathered associated base. The natural aging appearance resembles natural stone, due to the high stone content, a feature of early composition stone planters and statues whilst expertly cast, it has some nibbles to the edges, see photos. A striking garden planter or centrepiece with a handsome presence and colour. The planter and base measures 27cm tall.
