Description

An elegant George I walnut stool, circa 1720, with cabriole legs, slipper feet, and restrained upholstery - a refined early Georgian piece with timeless decorative appeal. Why We Love This... Beautifully proportioned and unmistakably Georgian, this walnut stool embodies the elegance of the early 18th century. The gentle sweep of the cabriole legs, the slipper feet, and the warm walnut colour give it a quiet sophistication. It is a piece that brings grace and refinement to any room, despite its modest scale.
