Description

A wonderfully characterful 1930s English cast stone garden statue depicting a sow with her seven piglets, full of warmth, charm, and rural storytelling. The scale is impressive without being overwhelming, and the naturally weathered patina gives the piece the soft, mottled surface collectors adore. These early cast stone animal groups are increasingly sought after, especially when the modelling is as expressive and well-observed as this example. A delightful addition to any garden, terrace, or country home.
