Description

Captivating 1930s–40s oil by Philippe de Rougemont, French-born Swedish artist known for expressive nudes. Why We Love This ... A wonderfully intimate and expressive oil on canvas by the listed French-born artist Philippe de Rougemont, painted during his highly productive Swedish period in the 1930s–1940s. Blending Belle Époque figurative tradition with Scandinavian modernism, the work captures a woman admiring herself in the mirror – confident, self-possessed, and full of personality. De Rougemont's draughtsmanship is exceptional: the raised arm, angled mirror, and carefully placed objects guide the eye with deliberate elegance. The interplay of light and reflection creates a sense of presence, as though we are sharing the room with her.
