Description

Pair of early 1900s oak Glastonbury chairs with trefoil details, X-frame bases and mellow patina - striking Gothic Revival statement seating. Why We Love This ... These chairs have that rare combination of sculpture, history, and presence. The X-frame silhouette, the trefoil cutouts, the pegged joints - everything about them speaks to craftsmanship and architectural intent. They feel grounded, monastic, and quietly powerful, yet softened by the warm, mellow patina of the oak. As a true pair, they make a statement that is both decorative and deeply atmospheric.
