Description

An elegant and highly decorative antique Ansonia crystal regulator mantel clock, manufactured by the renowned Ansonia Clock Company of New York and dating to the late nineteenth century, circa 1880. Housed within an exceptionally decorative gilt bronze (ormolu) mounted crystal case, this fine clock displays the rich Rococo Revival styling that characterised some of Ansonia's most desirable productions. The elaborate cast scrolling crest, floral ornament and flowing ormolu mounts demonstrate a level of craftsmanship far beyond ordinary mantel clocks of the period. The transparent crystal case allows full appreciation of the exposed movement, pendulum assembly and striking mechanism, transforming the clock into both a functional timepiece and an impressive decorative object. Presented in good antique condition with age-related wear, patination and surface marks consistent with age and use. One mercury pendulum tube is missing, as photographed. The clock retains excellent decorative appeal and displays beautifully. Dimensions Height: 39cm Width: 22cm Depth: 20cm
