Description

An exceptionally decorative antique gilt painted display cabinet dating to the late nineteenth or early twentieth century, beautifully combining elegance, craftsmanship and artistic expression. Of slender proportions and highly desirable scale, this stunning vitrine is finished in warm gilt decoration with hand-painted floral garlands and romantic pastoral scenes throughout. The shaped glazed door opens to reveal a mirrored interior fitted with glass shelves, creating the perfect showcase for fine porcelain, silver, glassware, objets d'art or treasured collections. The cabinet displays a graceful serpentine form and elaborate Rococo-inspired cresting to its beautifully painted panels depicting courting figures and floral arrangements. Delicate gilt bronze mounts further enhance the cabinet, framing the piece with refined ornamentation and adding depth and contrast to the painted surfaces. Few pieces combine decorative impact and practical display space so successfully. Whether positioned in a drawing room, hallway, dining room or luxury retail interior, it serves as a true statement piece capable of transforming a room. Presented in good antique condition with charmin...
