Description

Mahogany bank of drawers, c.1910, with twelve drawers, original shell pulls and label holders - compact, characterful, practical and full of early 20th-century charm. Why We Love This ... This is the kind of piece that quietly earns its place in a room - full of irresistible early-20th-century character and utilitarian charm. Compact, beautifully made, with twelve drawers, each with its original shell pull and label holder give it a quietly authoritative presence - the sort of cabinet that once kept a workplace running smoothly and now brings warmth and order to a modern interior. The mellow mahogany patina softens the form beautifully, and the compact footprint makes it endlessly useful. It's practical, characterful, and full of the quiet dignity that only well-made working furniture carries.
