Description

A rare and wonderfully authentic early Primitive Vernacular 19th-century Comb-Back Rocking Chair in Ash and Sycamore from North Yorkshire, with traces of its original paint and the warmth and rustic charm of centuries-old craftsmanship. At a Glance - Appeal, Desirability & Collectibility • Date: 19th century circa 1840 • Origin: North Yorkshire, England • Materials & Construction: Ash and sycamore, traditionally joined and hand-turned • Design: Primitive comb-back rocking chair with cupid-bow shaped mouldings on the comb crest rail, turned spindle arm supports, and a thick one-piece sycamore seat • Craftsmanship: Artisan-made for comfort, resilience, and daily use, with gentle curved rockers and strong yet elegant proportions • Finish: Retains traces of its original painted surface, now beautifully mellowed with age and rich patina • Condition: Lovely antique condition with age-related wear, surface marks, and vestiges of early paintwork, consistent with authentic 19th-century use - a richly patinated finish developed through decades of use • Dimensions: H: 105cm (41.3") | W: 54cm (21.3") | D: 94cm (37.0") • Delivery is not included
