Description

Edwardian Cast Iron Horse Doorstop — Bronze Detailing Short Description An Edwardian cast iron horse doorstop with bronze detailing, finely modelled and full of equestrian grace — decorative and functional. Full Description A handsome Edwardian doorstop in cast iron, depicting a prancing horse mounted on a stepped plinth base. The sculpture is finished in a deep bronze/black patina with gilt highlights to the harness and hooves, accentuating its elegant form and movement. Dating from the early 20th century, this piece reflects the refined craftsmanship and equestrian motifs popular in Edwardian decorative arts. Solid and weighty, it serves both as a practical doorstop and a sculptural accent for the home. Details Period: Edwardian, early 20th century Origin: England Material: Cast iron with bronze detailing Dimensions: H 26 cm | W 28 cm | D 6 cm Condition: Very good vintage condition with minor wear consistent with age Provenance: English private collection Styling Notes Perfect for adding a touch of equestrian elegance to a hallway or study. Its sculptural presence and rich patina make it equally suited for display on a console or mantel. Delivery Delivery is n...
