Description

This truly fabulous antique bracelet is crafted in rich 9ct rose gold and set with a stunning array of deep red Almandine Garnet gemstones. Dating to around 1910, the piece showcases exceptional Edwardian design with fancy interlocking links, giving it both elegance and presence on the wrist. The bracelet measures 19cm (7½") in length and features 16mm x 13mm ornate links that create a beautifully fluid, lace-like effect. Each garnet is securely claw-set in a decorative gold frame, adding vibrant colour and antique charm. It fastens with a classic snap-in clasp and retains its original safety chain, ensuring both security and authenticity. Stamped 9C with the maker's mark CDB, this bracelet has been professionally cleaned and polished and is offered in excellent antique condition.
