Description

A magnificent Chamberlain Worcester vase and cover, circa 1815-20. Of ovoid form, the fluted shoulder applied with impressive gilt wyvern handles, richly decorated with gilt-edged panels of exotic 'fancy' birds in the manner of George Davis, on grassy banks, a profusion of smaller panels with more colourful birds and insects, reserved on a deep blue mazarine ground, 53cm high, red script mark 'Chamberlains Worcester' to cover. This shape was selected for the important vase and cover painted by Humphrey Chamberlain Junior with a portrait of Princess Charlotte, formerly in the Twilight Collection and sold by Bonhams on 29 September 2021, lot 47. Geoffrey Godden illustrates a similar vase and cover painted with birds and insects, see Chamberlain-Worcester Porcelain (1982), p.304, fig.304. Condition: The vase and cover both in good condition with no damage. There is a tiny fleabite nick to the tip of one of the pings of one wyvern handle, of little significance. The enamel decoration remains very well overall. However, there is a little wear to the gilding in places, mainly confined to the high points of the top of the finial, the rims, handles, shoulder, acanthus moulded s...
