Description

An Extremely Good Quality Regency Period Rosewood Circular Centre Table, Or Hall Table, Of Rare Diminutive Proportions, With Elegant Brass Inlaid Decoration Throughout, The Superbly Figured Circular Tilting Top Raised On Stepped Square Central Support And Attractive Quad Form Concave Base With Four Sabre Legs And Original Brass Paw Castors. This centre table is of relatively typical design for the height of the Regency period, however it does have a few distinguishing features which lift it above and beyond most that you will find available on the market for sale. The first is its size. It is that bit smaller than the average, perfect for an entrance hall, or possibly even behind a settee. In combination with the lovely thin top and superbly figured rosewood veneers it stands very elegantly and will look fabulous wherever one chooses to locate it. Another excellent feature is the high quality brass inlaid decoration throughout, something that really raises the elegance and sophistication of the table. Overall the quality of the table is excellent, highlighted further by the choice of decorative veneers and extra attention to detail in various areas. It also remains...
